

My dear Mr. Jackson—I am extremely sorry again to disappoint you, but it would be too hazardous for me to leave the house to-day, as I have not been off my bed since day before yesterday, except to have it made, till this forenoon. My head is better, and I feel somewhat relieved of my severe pains; so that I confidently hope to give you a sitting to-morrow, either in the forenoon or afternoon, as you may prefer. I will try to make up for lost time, as I regret to keep you waiting a single hour.

Yours, truly,
Wm. Lloyd Garrison.

J. A. Jackson, Esq.

Check check

ditto

J. A. Jackson, Esq.

Wm. Lloyd Garrison